

Bitburg American School

SCHOOL HISTORY

In September, 1953, the building that now houses the Bitburg American High School and the Elementary School was erected. However, not until September of 1954 were there enough ninth graders to form a class; from this basis our high school developed.

When our student population was supplemented by pupils from Spangdahlem and Prum in 1955, we had a sufficient enrollment for a full, four-year high school. In June the school graduated its first senior class, consisting of seven members. This year of 1956—1957 has found the population of Bitburg American High School just doubled. An inevitable problem was the lack of space, but this was quickly remedied by holding classes in an adjoining pre-fabricated building. It is with pride that we recall the achievements of the year as recorded in this annual.
