

POET'S CORNER

Test Day

Minds enveloped in intellectual activity
Then the papers go in and we all get D's.

Larry Peterson

Wind

Have you ever wondered what winds really are,
That go a blowing oh so far,
Which brings all kinds of weather from there and there,
And almost everywhere.
That is the cause of many things,
Including all our lakes and springs.
It often harms us in many ways,
But also helps us on other days.
Sure it's strong, hard, and tough,
But nothing for us is too rough.
We need the wind to stay alive,
Until the day we must die.
So my friend don't be afraid.
Just be glad that the wind was made.

Anthony Massotti

i'm sorry if i don't conform love must have freedom or it will die.

i'm sorry
that i can't conform, but i feel even more sorrow for you, because your vision
is already so narrowed,
because the sky
in your eyes will never mean anything more than an indication of the weather.
