

THE YEARS

We no longer are the simple little minded children we once were, through the years we have grown, matured, and developed into the young adults we are now . . . Seniors

Reaching the end only to start a new beginning we realized our destinies are still to be reached, but the accomplishments we've made can be remembered and cherished forever.

— Theresa Zelesnikar