

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

the courtyards could actually be used . . .

Mr. Chaney read his beloved students The Cat in the Hat ...

elevator passes were issued to freshmen and there were no elevators . . .

BHS had a winning football team . . .

cafeteria hamburgers were made out of real MEAT . . .

students actually knew who the vice-principal was . . .

the walls weren't bi- or tri-colored . . .

you caught SENIORITIS . . .

Mrs. Taylor won the 'Pie in the Face' contest and the whole student body cheered . . .

the electrician was shocked and thrown across the hallway . . .

the ceiling in the gym fell down . . .

school was dismissed because of 'bombs' . . .

Christmas Break was over and you forgot your locker combo . . .

the tiles in the front walk shot water straight up when you stepped on them . . .

there was a juke box in the 'Pink Palace' . . .

there was a football field that could be used . . .

the Mark rate was high . . .

fourth hour was optional . . .

you saw the inside of a locker from the INSIDE . . .

there was no 'forest' in front of the school to make it more aesthetically pleasing . . .

the Senior Courtyard was really the Senior Courtyard ...

Harry's was Harry's . . .

your parents had to drive you everywhere . . .

the school had no roof . . .

there was a waterfall cascading down the wall in Herr Vogt's room . . .

the intercoms had a mind of their own . . .

it didn't take two years to get a letter jacket . . .

the Senors didn't win the Spirit Stick . . .

the busses arrived on time . . .

school was postponed because of snow . . .

the rolladen didn't work and then they did and then they didn't and now they do, but only if you have a key . . .

a certain science teacher lectured for half an hour with his zipper down . . .

Bitburg had good sportsmanship . . .

Seniors were respected . . .

Mr. Gaittens was the 'top-rocker' . . .

your best friend left and you had to stay . . .

from the Senor Class of Bitburg High