Chorus was a performing group for students with an interest in vocal music and the desire to sing. These students were given the opportunity to sing both as a group and individually.

Carol Healy commented on how she got interested in music: "We've always had a piano in our house since I can remember. I used to always watch my dad play around and I wanted to play also."

Choir members performed in the Christmas and the Spring concert which were the highlights of their year. They also attended the music festival, which combined Hanau and Bad Kreuznach with Bitburg to form one chorus and present a concert at each of the participating schools.

Sophomore Katie Makos adds, "Singing is the best way to express your truest, innermost feelings."
