

Intramurals: Burn Your Lunch

Charles "Volleyball Head" Kittell tries to return a serve but misses instead.

The first thing most people think of when they hear the word "lunch" is food. For others, it is a chance to spend time with friends. But for some, the sports buffs of the bunch, lunch might mean intramurals.

Intramural sports at lunch in the gym have been a Bitburg tradition since the mid-1980s. Directed by Coach Denny Lemmon, the lunchtime sports range from Philadelphia football to indoor soccer. Other sports were volleyball, basketball, and flag football.

Intramurals are open to anyone with a desire to play a particular sport: faculty, freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Teams can be male, female, or co-ed. But whatever the sport, fun is guaranteed and the competition is there...waiting for the school to partake.

Above: Can you name this anonymous basketball player?

Philip Smith bounces back after returning a serve.

The essence of the sport...

Below: Kevin House launches a beautiful underhand serve.

Above: Doug Miller skillfully avoids his attacker.

Above: Here we see the exciting three-on-three soccer action, which took place in the gym during the winter.