

Emily Kroloff

Emily,

Little did I know that 18 years ago I would give birth to such a personable, wonderful, and intelligent daughter? You have changed my life in so many ways so that I have been able spend these past years on providing you with many of the tools you will need to continue to be as successful as you already are. This next chapter in your life will open the door to many more adventures as you re-invent a new you. Always strive to do your best, remain caring and compassionate, and keep focused on what really matters. One day, your ideas will change the world for which I want you to know how proud I am for you. You will always be my "special girl." Love Mom.

Emily: I want you to know how proud I am of you and all your successes so far. I may not always say it but you are such special person and you have made my life more fulfilling. Watching you grow into the young lady you have become has been a joy. Remember, as you close one chapter in your life and begin another, know my thoughts are with you and all the happiness that you bring to me and everyone else who's path you will cross.

All my love Grandma Kroloff.

To Emily on her graduation!

15 years ago, I had the joy of taking the cutest and happiest little 3 year old into the Starlab with my kindergarten class. I have to say she was the best behaved in the whole group. Two years later, I again had the joy of having that bappy, vivacious child in my kindergarten class. She brought a smile to my face every time I saw the joy in her smile and the happiness in her soul. I have since watched you grow into a beautiful young woman. I am so proud of your determination to be such a great student. I believe that you can do anything you set your mind to Emily. It makes me proud to know that I have had the opportunity to be a part of your life. I miss you very much but know that no matter how far away we are, you are always in my heart.

Congratulations Miss Emily!

Love,

Miss Lowder
