In and out of the classroom, we Barons explored our interests by participating in dynamic elective classes and taking part in academic clubs and activities. From cooking to student government, Barons worked to broaden our horizons in hope of finding what may one day be a true calling. As the semester winds down we can look back upon this school year with a feeling of success and wonder what the future may hold for us. Perhaps the foundations have been set not for one day finding the perfect job but for creating the perfect career. A huge thanks goes out to all the faculty sponsors who made these experiences a reality.
