

'Move Over, Gabriel'

Saints March In For Satch Adieu

NEW YORK (UPI) — They said goodbye to Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong Friday with a service that sent the jazz rhythms of the New Orleans funeral song, "When the Saints Go Marching In," halfway around the world.

Only 500 people could attend the funeral service for the great jazz trumpeter in the simple red brick Corona Congregational Church in a quiet Queens neighborhood.

In an eloquent and moving eulogy, radio personality Fred Robbins told the congregation, including New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a representative of President Nixon and entertainers Ella Fitzgerald, Duke Ellington, Noble Sissle, David Frost and Dick Cavett, that Armstrong was a "genuine American folk hero."

"Move over Gabriel, here comes Satchmo," he said.

Peggy Lee flew in from the West Coast to sing "The Lord's Prayer." For Armstrong's wife of 29 years, Lucille, a choir sang "Just a Closer Walk With Thee."

He had come 1,500 miles from his native New Orleans to win his greatest fame, but as they do for all those other jazzmen in the city where Dixieland was born, the assembled musicians played "When the Saints Go Marching In" for Armstrong, who died in his sleep Tuesday of a heart attack at the age of 71.

Armstrong's widow was red-eyed but composed throughout the 35-minute ceremony which was broadcast to 16 European nations by satellite. Seated with her were Armstrong's sister, Mrs. Beatrice Collins of New Orleans, who collapsed upon entering the church and had to be assisted to her pew.

Mourners began arriving late in the morning at the church, which is cooled only by fans.

Lockheed Loan Support 'Vital,' Says Treasury

(Continued from Page 1) guarantee is designed to save. The Pentagon said that at that level of sales, the company would lose at least $359 million. The analysts said an additional 122 planes would have to be sold to reach the break-even point.

If the Pentagon report proved accurate, the risk to the government of Lockheed defaulting on its loan would be much greater because the company would have to sell more planes to reach the point that it could repay the loan and avoid bankruptcy.

At the same time another report critical of the proposed loan said the threat to kill the TriStar may be "a game of chicken" played with U.S. taxpayers.

A staff study by the House Banking Committee questions whether plans to produce the big L1011 aircraft would be dropped even if the guarantee is not forthcoming.

It argues that the three major interests involved — the British government, banks that already have advanced $499 million to Lockheed and the potential airline buyers of the plane — would stand to lose heavily from cancellation.

Alternatively, the report says, there may be information that the L1011 "is not as good as the advocates ... say it is."

The Senate Banking Committee meanwhile ended three

Farmers Kidnap Trio, Demand Machinery

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A group of farmers who kidnaped the director of a North American gold mining company and two other persons reportedly demanded Thursday that the government exchange vehicles and farm machinery for their release.

Julio Jauregui, the 63-year-old manager of South American Placers, was kidnaped Wednesday by farmers who live near Teoponte, a tropical city some 100 miles from La Paz. The two persons kidnaped with Jauregui were not identified.

Captain Culver Promoted Protest, Claim Four Witnesses at U.K. Trial

By MARY ANN REESE
London Bureau Chief
LAKENHEATH, England —

Four men testified Friday that they saw Capt. Thomas A. Culver stand outside the gate of Lakenheath Air Base on May 24, passing out leaflets inviting servicemen to sign a protest to the Vietnam War.

The four men also testified in opening the prosecution phase of Culver's general court-martial that he urged servicemen to attend a protest meeting at the American Embassy in London on May 31.

The four witnesses were Capt. Robert Cole, a lawyer at Lakenheath; S.Sgt. John Ferragne; OSI Agent James S. Allen; and S.M. Sgt. Robert K. Wilson.

Culver is on trial before an eight-member panel on charges of illegally demonstrating at the U.S. Embassy on May 31 and of urging other U.S. servicemen to take part in such illegal demonstrations. On that date a petition was presented to the U.S. Embassy at Grosvenor Square by a number of persons in civilian clothes purporting to be American servicemen opposed to the Vietnam war.

Culver, who could face up to two years' imprisonment and a dishonorable discharge if convicted of the charges, is taking part in his own defense and told Col. Carl R. Abrams, the trial judge, Friday that the defense may seek a visit to London's Hyde Park corner, one of the locations where Culver is alleged to have illegally demonstrated.

Culver, a lawyer, said: "We propose to show the milling around of servicemen there on May 31 — a British holiday as well as an American holiday — would not have been unduly noticed."

The judge said the law "allows the court to order visits in exceptional circumstances." He said he would rule after the government presents its case. He added, "I am rather cautious about 20 Air Force officers in full uniform showing up at the height of its activity. It might look a bit extraordinary."

The second day of the court-martial was devoted mostly to a laborious examination of each of 12 officers suggested for court duty as jury. Capt. Frank Wesson, 34, of Mildenhall, Culver's choice for defense council, said such lengthy examination was required since Culver has served as a lawyer on this Suffolk County base for three years and the matters involving the charges against him have been topics of commander's briefings, news articles and general conversation.

The members finally selected for the court are Col. Eugene Traendly of Mildenhall and Woodside, N.Y., who will serve as court president; Col. Richard White of South Ruislip Air Station; Col. Uriel B. Ailford Jr. of Lakenheath and Little Rock, Ark.; Col. Melvin Elliott of Lakenheath; Maj. Jerry Neil Hicks of Lakenheath and Afton, Tex.; Maj. Harold A. Solberg of Lakenheath; Maj. Douglas Harrington of Lakenheath and Greenville, Miss., and Capt. Andrew Pomeroy of Lakenheath.

McCloskey Will Enter '72 Primary

Under questioning, he qualified his statement about primaries to say "I intend to enter New Hampshire and California provided he (Nixon) doesn't end the war... I will run in such other primaries as I can find the money for. As yet I don't know where it's coming from."

Nixon Won't 'Abdicate'

Nixon has not said whether he will enter primaries. It has been widely assumed in Washington that he would not. A presidential aide indicated before McCloskey's news conference that the President doubtless "will not abdicate" if faced with a primary challenge.

"In my judgment the two-party system is one of the basic strengths of our political system, but only when both parties are vigorous and healthy. No institution can long survive unless it can attract the idealism, enthusiasm and energy of the finest young people in the nation," McCloskey said.

"We will seek to end CIA involvement in the internal affairs of other nations and to limit that agency's operation to the field of intelligence gathering."

Drug String Voted on Aid Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee, reflecting stepped up congressional concern over drugs, voted Thursday to cut off aid to countries that do not take "adequate steps" to prevent narcotics from illegally entering the United States.

The panel tacked on to the pending foreign aid bill an amendment by Rep. John Monagan, D-Conn., that would suspend economic and military assistance to countries which he had determined were not cooperating in international narcotics control.

It also would authorize him to furnish assistance to governments and international organizations that were trying to crack down on illicit drug traffic.

The committee's action came after the State Department said it was up to the governments of Southeast Asia to act against any of their officials found guilty of participating in dope dealings which affect American servicemen.

Meanwhile, State Department spokesman Robert W. Bray refused to confirm or deny a charge by Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., that South Vietnamese Gen. Ngo Dzu was a "chief trafficker" in the narcotics trade.

Mother Foils Hijack Of Airliner by Son

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Vietnam veteran who has been hospitalized at Ft. Dix, N.J., was picked up at Kennedy Airport early Friday after his mother told police he was going to hijack a plane.

Port Authority police said the soldier, Pvt. Bennie Wright, 21, of the Bronx, was taken into custody at the Delta Airlines building. They said Wright was unarmed and did not possess a flight ticket.

Police said Wright's mother told them her son had recently returned from Vietnam and was undergoing psychiatric treatment at a Ft. Dix Hospital. They said she told them her son was AWOL and planned to hijack an airliner.

Scores Killed In Chile Quake

It registered highs of 8-9 in Valparaiso, Chile's second largest city and main Pacific ocean port, where casualty figures were high, and the neighboring resort city of Pina del Mar, 68 miles northwest of Santiago.

These readings are unusually high. The disastrous earthquake in Alaska in 1964 was 8.2 on the Richter scale. There was speculation that the Chilean readings were in error.

Toha said 25 persons were killed in the quake in the Valparaiso area. Reporters there said the final death toll might be twice that number. The Roman Catholic cathedral was partly destroyed and 20 to 30 per cent of the buildings there were damaged. Rescue officials in Valparaiso said the injured may total 300.

A mild tremor was felt Friday morning in Santiago and Valparaiso, spreading fresh alarm.

The quake also was felt through much of Argentina across the Andes, but no casualties or major damage were reported there.

A number of buildings were reported to have collapsed in Illapel, 100 miles north of Santiago, with at least 12 dead there. Another eight persons were killed in Santiago.
